NOT NOW.

The path of duty I clearly trace, I stand with conscience face to face, And all her pains allow; Calling and crying the while for grace, " Some other time, and some other place-O, not to-day-not now !"

I know 'tis a demon bading ill, I know I have power to do if I will, And I put my hand to th' plough; I have hir, sweet seeds in my barn, and lo! When all the forrows are ready to sow, The voice says, "O, not now!"

My peace I sell at the price of woe --In heart and in spirit I suffer so, The anguish wrings my brow, But still I hager and cry for grace-"Some other time, and some other place-O, not to-day -- not now !"

I tilk to my stubboin heart and say, The week I must do I will do to-day; I will make to the Lord a vow And I will not rest and I will not sleep Till the vow I have towed I use and keep, And the denion cries, " Not now !"

And so the days and the years go by, And so I register he upon lie, And break with Heaven my vow; For when I would holdly take my stand, This terrible demon stays my hand-"O, not to-day-not how " ALICE CARY.

He describes if as telescopic, its position being right ascension 9 deg. 52 min. 44 sec., and declination 34 deg. 7 min. In the course of an hour it increased a little both in right ascension and declination, so that it seems to be moving in a northwest-erly direction. About the same time a comet was perceived at Amiens, but does not seem to be the same, since it is described as having a tail of an apparent length of two metres, while M. For the Compiler. TO THE DEMOCRACY OF ADAMS COUNTY.

Mr. Stanle:-Will you permit me again to use the columns of your most excellent paper for the purpose of addressing a few words more to the unflinehing Democracy of Adams county. These are words of congratulation upon the success of our whole ticket, under circumstances highly embarrassing, in view of the many elements of flerce opposition that surrounded us. In our end of the county, although we held our own, and in one township a little over that of last year, we had to contend with a certain religious influence, and to counteract this it required more than ordinary vigitance and perseverance. Still we lost forty some votes through the unbecoming political babbling of a certain quack theologian of some pretensions, who proclaimed on various occasions that not a single memper of his church should go to the polis,-This apostle (for he is netorious as such) of negro-ireadom behaved himself in this natter more in accordance with the false devotion of hired stump speakers, than with the practices and doctrines of Christ, for he well knew that eight out of ten in his different congregations in our region were Democrats, and it seems plain to us that smister motives led him to electioneer.

merely mention this fact to show that ve would have polled fifty more votes in our end had it not been for this itinerant ! preacher of (politics) the Gospel. He is so situated in life that he will be likely to remain with us the remainder of his days, and if he again throws off the proper habitiments of a minister of the Gospel, and gets into the business of electioneering, we will find some remedy to cure him of such unbecoming practices. There are various modes of treatment, either one of which is quite effective in his case. In connection with this, we had to contend with the influence of a number of renegate Democrats, or "War Union Democrats," if you please. We are not disposed, however, to give them credit for any intime specimen of the old style, sturdy far, and the descon had nothing for it but to went in search of game. In passing through throw.
